

Addison Group guides an international university during their Workday Financials & HCM implementation

Success story
Finance &
Accounting

An international university was navigating a Workday Financials and HCM implementation and needed staff augmentation and strategic resources to ensure the implementation was a success.

Challenge

ERP implementations like Workday Financials can be daunting, especially for an international university with complex operations. Without the right support, the risks included delayed general ledger processes, inaccurate financial reporting, and team burnout.

Solutions

The university's controller partnered with Addison Group to provide tailored staff augmentation and strategic resources to ensure their success throughout the implementation. Addison Group provided accountants to manage day-to-day general ledger tasks and month-end close processes, freeing up their permanent team to focus on the Workday Financials implementation.

Additionally, we supported the payroll department by identifying technical and functional consultants for the Workday HCM phase, enabling a smooth rollout of critical HR and payroll systems.
